Positive Behavior Intervention and Supports (PBIS)

The building PBIS Committee has been meeting regularly and discussing ways to help support our students both during in-school learning and during at-home, distance learning. The committee has chosen to modify the current behavior clip chart for the 2020-21 school year. All children will begin their day on a white section at the bottom of the chart that reads "I am in control of my mindset and choices." When a student exhibits behaviors that show he/she is following the school-wide expectations, that student will have the ability to move his/her clip up the chart to colored sections. The green section reads "I am being respectful, responsible, and ready to learn"; the purple section reads "I am making good choices and preserving in my work"; the pink section reads "I am acting like a role model and taking educational risks"; and the blue section reads "I am a super student leader today." The chart will no longer have a yellow, orange, or red section below the white starting point. Each teacher will communicate with individual parents when their child had a difficult time following the school-wide expectations each day. Students will still bring home the daily PAW Print calendar that shows what section of the chart they ended their day on. If a student had a difficult time following the school expectations, they will receive a parent report sheet that the teacher will review with the parent and the parent will need to review with their child and sign and return to the teacher the following school day.

Go Green Lottery

The Thoreau Park PBIS committee would like to recognize students that have worked hard to follow our school's expectations even while at home completing distance learning. The following students have shown their teachers that they can be Responsible, Respectful, and Ready to Learn at home by completing all of their distance learning assignments and turning them in. Each student received a Pawsitive Panther sign to display in their front yard.

Each student was randomly chosen for this reward.
